Course Title: Ideology and Constitution making

Course Code: GED-101

Credit Hours: (2+0)

Course Instructor: Mr. Ahsan Ali

Electronic Mail: ahsan.faculty@aror.edu.pk

- Description:

- The survey course on Pakistan Studies is designed to provide students with a comprehensive understanding of the country's history, politics, culture, and society. A major focus is placed on the ideological foundations of Pakistan, the vision behind its creation, and the constitutional journey that has shaped the state. Students will explore the events leading to the establishment of Pakistan, as well as the subsequent transformations in political authority, economy, foreign policy, administrative institutions, and societal structures. Special emphasis is given to the evolution of Pakistan's constitutions and the principles that underpin its national ideology, enabling students to critically appreciate the role of constitutional development in strengthening the state and its institutions. The course has been developed across the Cognitive, Affective, and Psychomotor domains to encourage not only knowledge acquisition but also value formation and practical engagement with the responsibilities of citizenship.

- Aims and Objectives

The rationale of this course is to provide students with a deeper understanding of the historical, ideological, constitutional, social, and economic aspects of Pakistan. Emphasis is placed on connecting the ideological foundations of the state with its constitutional developments, enabling students to critically analyze Pakistan's political and social structure. It is hoped that the students of Aror University will find the study both fascinating and enthralling, while gaining meaningful insight into the ideological and constitutional basis of Pakistan.
